To Whom It May Concern:

As an administrator in private schools for 15 years, I have been involved in a number of building projects and renovations. The work can be exciting and fulfilling or exasperating and exhausting, and everything in between. Where you find yourself in this process depends largely on the contractor you have engaged.

As the new gymnasium/chapel/classroom addition at Saint Gregory's nears completion, I am happy to report I am excited and fulfilled because Zandri Construction Corporation helped make the process a lighthearted, satisfying venture. Not a single phase of the project was difficult!

This was due to the integrity, honesty and conscientiousness of Dick Zandri and the supervisors, Dave Canfield and Ed Kacizki. They are bringing this project to a close on time, and on budget. Every problem that arose—and every major construction project has problems—was dealt with carefully, thoughtfully and satisfactorily. The manner in which all business matters were dealt with was harmonious, friendly, cordial and thorough. Imagine that in this day and age!

I have not dealt with any other contractor in my years that I can speak so glowingly about. Of course, I give them the highest recommendation and would gladly speak further of them personally should there be any questions.

Sincerely,
